Interviewee: Mark T. Henderson (Insured)
Examiner: Craig Wallace (SIU Senior Field Investigator)
Date of Interview: October 20, 2026 at 10:00 AM PDT
Location: In-person recorded interview, San Jose

Q: Mr. Henderson, what time did this accident take place on Sunday, October 18?
A: It was about 8:30 PM. I had just grabbed a quick dinner at Cupertino and was driving home towards San Jose on Stevens Creek Boulevard.

Q: Were you anywhere near State Route 85 around midnight that evening?
A: Absolutely not. I was home in bed by 10:00 PM. My car was already parked after the culvert incident.

Q: Walk me through the point of collision again.
A: Like I wrote in my claim, I was on Stevens Creek. A dark pickup cut in front of me, so I veered hard right. My front passenger tire and right bumper smashed into the concrete culvert edging. It made a loud scraping crash on the passenger side.

Q: The repair shop and photographs show extensive front-left damage, including a torn driver-side bumper and smashed driver-side headlight. How do you explain that?
A: Look, when the tow truck picked it up, they might have strapped it improperly or maybe it got secondary damage in their yard. But when I hit the culvert, it was on the right side.

Q: Did the California Highway Patrol ever respond to your accident?
A: No, I never called 911. Like I said, the truck drove away and nobody was hurt so why waste hours waiting for CHP?

Q: CHP has an accident report citing your vehicle and driver's license on Highway 85 at 11:42 PM against a center guardrail.
A: That must be an identity error or someone misread my plate. I was not driving on Highway 85 at midnight.

EXAMINER NOTE: Deponent appeared nervous, evasive regarding the 3-hour midnight gap, and became defensive when presented with the physical front-left guardrail photos.
